

PILGRIMS FROM THE DESERTS OF SNOW

A REPORTER of the Advertiser visited the Moana hotel last evening and found the Shriners as eager as ever to say good things of Hawaii. To the collection of good words and good wishes already made, the following are appended:

"You are certainly very up to date in your little City. Who would have thought to see automobiles so plentiful in the Hawaiian Islands? You certainly are a most charmingly inquisitive man, and I cannot help to express my admiration for the natural beauties that surround Honolulu. Only those who have seen the Islands can comprehend. Another thing that surprised me is the quality of your press. I don't think I know of a crisper, newer and altogether more up-to-date morning paper than your Advertiser. I have become quite at home with it, and read it every morning after breakfast, just as if I was reading my own home paper."—C. A. Hungerford, Watertown, New York.

"I have been to the Falls, and think it quite remarkable that I have returned all at once, instead of by bits. I never was in such a wind, and the scenery! It is magnificent. I did not know the wind could blow so hard as it does in that Fall. I am thankful that I have any hair left, and also that hairpins can be procured in your City. Do you know, I might have doubted that last before I came! How surprised I was to find such advancement and such delightful, refined and educated people."—Mrs. Diefenderfer, Orwigsburg, Pa.

"This is not my first trip to the Islands, but it has been thirteen years since I was here, and I was astonished at the improvements, although I had kept well informed by the papers. I had no idea of the industrial growth, and the general progress of the place. I do not think that the present prosperity is a boom. I think it is a normal condition. All you need is a cable."—C. S. Wright, San Francisco.

"The thing that impressed me most upon arriving was to see so many nationalities and kinds of people mingling together so harmoniously. It is a strange thing, but I think it is a normal condition. All you need is a cable."—C. S. Wright, San Francisco.

"Although I cannot say that I am surprised at the refinement of the Hawaiian people, for I have read much about them, yet I find in them a charm that I had not anticipated, and I think the little native children are the sweetest of all. I should never tire of watching them."—Mrs. Went, Manistee, Mich.

"I am much astonished at the ease with which fashion has found its way in these faraway beautiful Islands. The luau Saturday to me was a perfect picture and I had a hard time persuading myself that it was real. I do so much admire the dark beauty of the Hawaiian women, especially their soft, gentle eyes."—Mrs. Waddell, Grand Rapids, Mich.

"Just let me add one little echo to all the praise that has been bestowed upon Hawaii's beauties, and two echoes to the praise of your surf bathing. If it were not for the coral it would be perfect, but as it is, it is glorious."—Miss Warren, Bridgeport, Conn.

"Just say for me that I am in love with the Islands and everything in them. It is such a place as could not be found anywhere else for our season of holiday."—Miss Blackman, Detroit, Mich.

"I am charmed and delighted, as are all the rest. How could they be otherwise?"—Miss Wright, San Francisco.

"I tell you, I want to say a great deal about that street car system of yours. I would like to see it, and I have heard that it pays a 54 per cent dividend. I tell you, you can get your money's worth on those cars. You can ride an hour or as many hours as you like between the City and Waikiki, all for five cents, and you will get more motion—fewer bumps—than any other car system in the United States will furnish. I am having a delightful time."—Tracy Warren, Bridgeport, Conn.

"I am pleased with it all, particularly the surf bathing and the lovely drives."—Mrs. T. Warren, Bridgeport, Conn.

"You have a delightful and most promising City, commercially, socially and every way else. Your scenery is magnificent."—James K. Crofut, Hartford, Conn.

"I have had a fine time, a continual fine time, especially last night!"—S. K. Phelps, Norwood, N. Y.

"We have been to the Falls and I want to say a few words in praise of the magnificent valley. It is simply beautiful beyond description, and all that we have seen is delightful."—Mrs. J. Crofut, Hartford, Conn.

"I am delighted with this little Eden that has somehow been dropped in the middle of the Pacific. I have not even a kick coming out of the street car system, and I think your City is getting modern too fast altogether. It seems wrong to destroy the native charm."—Henry Patterson, Bridgeport, Conn.

"I have seen many impressions of your people's islands before, but I have never been getting for me out in the Islands. The people were not so nice, but the scenery was a beautiful one. I was surprised to find a beautiful island like this."—J. Fisher, New York.

"In addition to all the praise of my friends for Honolulu, I want to say that I am greatly impressed with the refinement and culture of the people. I am surprised to find a beautiful island like this."—J. Fisher, New York.

"My impression of Honolulu is a surprise to me. You are not at all like the United States with its...

J. A. WOLCOTT, Commissioner.

inent for this beautiful Moana of yours, believe we did very well indeed."

Noble Wolcott is the general manager of the J. A. Wolcott Co. of Dowagiac, manufacturers of society and military supplies, and furnishes regalia for every secret organization known in the United States. The firm is in its infancy, but has made itself felt and has entered into competition with other firms in a manner which has carried it successfully along since its inception.

The officers of the manufacturing concern are nearly all with the present caravan and stand high in the Imperial Council. E. W. Lyle, the president of the company, is also president of a Dowagiac bank and one of Michigan's representative business men. L. E. Wood of the same place is its vice president; Eugene Gilbert, treasurer. Mr. Wolcott, however, carries on the business personally and is the only active worker amongst the officers.

The factory employs on an average of 185 to 200 persons and there is very little slacking up of the work from one end of the year to the other. Mr. Wolcott has been engaged in the regalia business for the past sixteen years and formerly traveled for one of the largest houses in the United States. He has had a wide experience in this line of business, which he says is always good.

Not only are the visiting Shriners proud of the regalia which was brought here for Aloha Temple, but the members of the local Temple indicate in many ways that they are tickled to death over their fine costumes. They are made of the finest of silks, satins and Persian fabrics and are thoroughly in accordance with the ritual. Mr. Wolcott designed each costume, and intended all the colors. The whole regalia cost somewhere in the neighborhood of $100,000, a pretty good sum for the amount of the business conducted by the company.

It is only when a person has seen the regalia that he can appreciate the quality of the work. The regalia is a masterpiece of design and execution, and it is a pity that it is not more widely known.

week and the rich costumes were admired by all who saw them.

In the caravan of Shriners are forty-two frisky Elks. Mr. Wolcott being Past Exalted Ruler and a member of Daisy Lodge 48, Grand Rapids, one of the finest equipped lodges of the kind in the country. Had the Elks known that there was a band of would-be Elks in Honolulu anxiously awaiting the visit of Grand Exalted Ruler Fisher, they would have taken steps to have some one accompany the party so that the local herd could be gathered in.

Mr. Wolcott says that arrangements are going ahead slowly respecting the visit of the Grand Exalted Ruler. Wolcott is, however, so much impressed with the beauties and hospitality of Honolulu that he will use every effort on his return to begin a movement which will culminate in a general migration of Elks from the United States. Noble Wolcott believes that Hawaii and especially Honolulu has a great future before it and expects to hear of it within a few years as one of the great seaports of the world when the Nicaragua canal is opened.

MOANA RECEPTION.

The ladies belonging to the Imperial Pilgrimage of the Shriners will give a reception and dance at the Moana hotel on Tuesday evening, March 26. J. G. Rothwell, managing director of the hotel, has given the ladies the use of the parlor and the dining hall. A canvas will be spread over the floor and the dancing will take place there. The best music will be furnished and a jolly good time is anticipated. The affair is complimentary to the wives, sweethearts and sisters of the members of Aloha Temple. In return for the many favors extended the ladies of the Imperial Pilgrimage. A luncheon will also be served.

THE SHRINER PERFORMANCE.

Next Monday evening there will be a special Shriners performance in the Hawaiian opera house. A large portion of the lower part of the house has been reserved for the Mystic Shriners, who will attend in full regalia. It is intended to decorate the interior of the building and make a gala night in every sense of the word.

For this special occasion Wray Taylor has offered the services of the Amateur Orchestra, consisting of twenty-six members. The offer has been gladly accepted by those in charge and it certainly will add to the evening's entertainment. Those attending will have a chance of hearing lots of new music. Tickets will be on sale at Wall, Nichols for the general public after those for the Shriners have been reserved. The boxes are to be auctioned off by Col. Will Fisher.

HOW THE BOTTLE WAS SMASHED.

A bad place to carry a bottle, and almost sure to end in disaster.

And so it proved in the case of Mrs. Jones' little girl. You see, her mother had sent the child to the shop of Mr. Ayres, the chemist, for a bottle of medicine, and when he had given it to her she put it inside of her closed umbrella to carry home.

On her way back it began to rain and the child thoughtlessly raised the umbrella. Half the contents of the bottle was saved, and the mother was obliged to make the best of it.

Writing under date of Nov. 27th, 1899, the lady says: "About four years ago came Christmas. I became bad with what I can only describe as a nasty, low, weak feeling. I was so weak that when I wanted to move from one place to another in the room I had to go hand over hand around the tables and chairs."

"This was so aggravating and I really was so feeble that I often felt like throwing myself down, only I knew I couldn't get up again. At times I would have such dreadful pain across my chest that I was afraid I would smother, and the sickening, coppery taste in my mouth of mornings was hard to bear."

"For the life of me I could not say what was the matter or what was the cause of all this. I had been to the lodge doctor regularly for about six months, and he told me I was a puzzle to him, and that he didn't know what ailed me."

"All he could say was that I did not give up lifting water from the well, cutting wood, milking and other work I had to do. I would not be long for this world. This was not a very cheerful view for him to take, but I have no doubt that he was sincere in it, and the state I was in seemed to bear him out in it. But his medicine had no effect on me at all."

"One day I happened to read about Mother Siegel's Syrup, and some cases in the book were as much like mine as one egg is like another in a basket."

"Here Mrs. Jones tells how she tidied up one of the children and sent her to the chemist for a bottle of the Syrup, which incident, with its attendant calamity has already been related."

"I commenced at once," continues our correspondent, "on what medicine there was left in the bottle and used it up. Then I sent for another, which came safe to hand. By the time I had finished this one I was ever so much better, but I kept right along with the medicine until I got perfectly well, which I did, and have not had any illness since."

"I am seldom without a bottle of Mother Siegel's Syrup in the house, and it is part of my common talk to tell people what it has done for me, and what I am sure it will do for anybody who suffers from the complaints we are all liable to have."—Mrs. Tabitha Jane Jones, Graham Street, Auburn, N. S. W.

Referring to the little girl's bad luck on her first visit to the chemist, Mrs. Jones adds that it is a comfort to reflect that a half bottle of Mother Siegel's Syrup is more good than a full one of anything else."

A GOOD COUGH MEDICINE FOR CHILDREN.

"I have of late been recommending the Chamberlain's Cough Remedy," says E. J. Moran, a well-known and popular doctor of Philadelphia, Pa. "We have given it to us children when afflicted with colds, whooping cough, and it has always given us the best results. It is a pleasant-tasting medicine, and it is a good thing to have it in the house. It is a good thing to have it in the house. It is a good thing to have it in the house."

HIZZONER All Run Down CITED.

Circuit Judge Humphreys is to be given an opportunity to appear before a tribunal and explain his action in using Jurors W. T. Schmidt and C. K. Quinn for not bringing in a verdict of guilty in the case of the Territory of Hawaii vs. Manu, when the other ten jurors concurred in the verdict of guilty. The Circuit Judge will step down and out of his official chair on the bench to the floor, where so many citizens, non-citizens and others who had run afoul of the law have been wont to tremble in his august presence. His place on the bench will be taken by the Chief Justice and Justices of the Supreme Court, who will listen to the mandamus proceedings brought against the Circuit Judge by the two jurors, who state that they are unable to agree with the Judge in his view of their holding out against the ten other jurors.

W. T. Schmidt, by his attorneys, Andrews, Peters and Andrade, presented a petition to the Chief Justice yesterday forenoon requesting that a writ of mandamus issue against Judge Humphreys, and set forth the following reasons for so doing:

As a juror sitting on trial before the Circuit Judge, he brought in a verdict in such cases in which he served as juror. At the conclusion of the trial of Manu, he retired to the jury room with the other several members of the jury for the consideration of a verdict. In the consideration of the verdict the plaintiff was unable to agree with ten other jurors, and no verdict was reached before the hour of 5:30 of that same day, and they requested further information from the Judge, and he was afterwards again unable to agree with the ten other jurors. He further states that up to and including the hour of 9 o'clock on May 1, 1901, he was seated by the Judge, and the jury was then ordered to appear before the Circuit Judge. The foreman informed the Judge that the jury could not agree upon a verdict, the jury standing ten to two. The Judge refused to accept the verdict of the jury, and was informed by the foreman that they were W. T. Schmidt and C. K. Quinn.

"The said A. S. Humphreys, Judge of said court, did then and there, without cause and without right, and contrary to the law and the rights of said jurors, W. T. Schmidt and C. K. Quinn, harshly and cruelly reprimand the said jurors and did then and there further order that the said jurors should be excused from further jury duty, and did then and there without cause and without right further order that said jurors forfeit their per diem fees as such jurors for the February term, 1901, of said court afore said."

That your petitioner, as a member of said jury aforesaid, was forced and compelled to pass the night of March 1 in the Judiciary building, in Honolulu, and that at all times while a verdict in said cause was being considered by said jury he did conduct himself properly, and did conscientiously perform his duties, in compliance with his oath as a juror, in the February term, 1901, of said court afore said.

Coal for This Station.

From recent reports it is learned, says the Binnacle, that 25,000 tons of coal are to be stored at the Navy Station in Hawaii. This will be the largest amount stored at any one station. San Francisco comes next with 15,000 tons.

Mrs. F. M. Swanzy entertained the middies of the English cruiser Warspite yesterday at Waikiki, afternoon and evening. In the afternoon the midshipmen were sent out among the breakers canoeing and surfing. In the early evening a delightful dinner was served, and after midnight the youngsters danced until quite late.
